Memo

Business and technology programs are growing at Black Hills State University. In addition to the business administration, BHSU offers an Entrepreneurial Studies Program. This emphasis offers hands on learning for students to start their own businesses as well as assist existing businesses in becoming more successful. Black Hills State faculty are active in local, regional, and national Business professional organizations and with the Spearfish Area Chamber of Commerce.

In addition, Black Hills State University offers more than 80 majors and minors beyond business & technology, including performing arts, mass communication, teacher education, wellness, physical sciences, psychology, social sciences, and music. More than 73% of the total student population are employed while enrolled at BHSU, creating a labor pool of more than 2,500 employees in the northern Black Hills. The teacher education program has taken a leadership role in integrating technology into teaching and learning, offering an online master's degree in educational technology.
